Keeping things roughly within the Genesis camp, we have this unusual album of transcripts of music from Steve Hackett for grand piano and pipe organ! Yes, pipe organ. Put together by a talented Italian musician; Marco Lo Muscio this is an unlikely combination that actually works rather well. Tribute albums can either be a real treat or a complete nightmare, thankfully here we have a musician who is not only talented in his own right but also obviously a dedicated fan of the music he is paying tribute to. The album opens with a wonderful rendering of Horizons on grand piano and it works incredibly well. This is followed by a suite of pieces from Bay Of Kings which once again, shows how right Steve was to describe the acoustic guitar as the "small orchestra" because the piano and in particular the pipe organ on the latter tracks; Kim and Cast Adrift really give an entirely new viewpoint on these established pieces from Steve's repertoire. The rest of the album continues to mix pipe organ and piano bringing many more of Steve's classic pieces vividly to life in a totally unexpected way - an album which will continue to surprise you every time you listen to it - excellent stuff!

ALAN HEWITT

"...Brilliant CD played fantastically! It was wonderful to feel the power of the organ combined with your complete commitment to the instrument and the music of all the composers. It was a sensational experience to hear music that started out as little doodles on the guitar being given such an extraordinary treatment. I'm a big fan of the sound of the organ which is a complete world in itself, especially in dedicated hands."

STEVE HACKETT

"I know about this guy, very very good as well I'm told"
